The Midtown International Theatre Festival (MITF), champions the diversity of theatre. They welcome theatrical storytelling across a broad spectrum of genres, forms, identities, cultures, and appetites. They seek to nurture these new ideas, perspectives, and stories on their stages, with an eye set on guiding these productions towards future success and longevity. The Festival represents a fantastic, often paradoxical, adventurous and intriguing cross-section of the forefront of the world of theatre.

Ten Reasons I Won't Go Home With You is a new musical about a girl looking for love in New York City. The story is about small-town girl Katie, who is looking for Mr. Right in the big city. The men she meets remind her that you kiss a lot of frogs before you find your prince. Scratch that. You kiss a lot of frogs...You might find your prince. This bright new show follows Katie as she leaps and bounds (and rebounds) her way through the weirdoes, heroes, egos, and quite possibly the biggest obstacle: herself.

The show is directed by Billy Mitchell, musically directed by Jason Wynn, stage managed by Sean McClafferty and produced by Phil Newsom, with Michael Roderick as consulting producer. The cast includes Edward Campbell, Mark Dunn, Benjamin Holmes, Kelly Nichols, Liza Poor, Marvin Riggins, Jr. and *Ryan Stadler (*indicates member of Actors' Equity Association. An Equity Approved Showcase.).
